

Confidentiality & Non-Disclosure Policy

IMPORTANT NOTICE

This is a binding legal document. All employees are required to read, understand, and sign this Policy as a mandatory condition of employment with Know AI. Failure to comply with this Policy may result in disciplinary action, recovery of damages, and/or legal proceedings in accordance with applicable law.

01 Preamble & Purpose

This Confidentiality and Non-Disclosure Policy ("Policy") is established by Know AI ("Company") to protect its proprietary information, business interests, and competitive advantage. The integrity of our data, systems, and knowledge assets is fundamental to our operations and must be safeguarded at all times.

This Policy applies to all employees, interns, consultants, advisors, and any individuals who have access to Company information, regardless of their role, seniority, or nature of engagement. Employment with or engagement by Know AI constitutes full acceptance of the terms set forth in this Policy.

This Policy supplements (and does not replace) the Employee's signed Employment Agreement or Internship Agreement, Offer Letter, and the Employee Handbook (collectively, the "Existing Documents"). Those documents already set out the Employee's confidentiality, intellectual property, data protection, conduct, exclusivity, non-solicitation, leave, working hours, code of conduct, and grievance and disciplinary obligations. In case of any conflict between this Policy and the Employment Agreement or Internship Agreement, the relevant Employment Agreement or Internship Agreement shall prevail. This Policy adds to and reinforces those obligations.

02 Confidential Information — What This Covers

For the purposes of this Policy, "Confidential Information" has the meaning given in Section 6 (Confidentiality & Non-Disclosure) of the Employment Agreement, or the equivalent confidentiality clause in the Internship Agreement. The categories set out in those documents continue to apply in full. This Section expands that definition with additional categories specific to Know AI's operations and adds a definition of Trade Secrets.

2.1 Additional Confidential Information Categories Specific to Know AI

- Source code, scripts, algorithms, AI/ML models, system prompts, and AI training data
- Application Programming Interfaces (APIs), databases, deployment pipelines, and server configurations
- Login credentials, access keys, API tokens, and authentication secrets
- Internal tools, development practices, software builds, and platform workflows
- Product roadmaps, wireframes, prototypes, and unreleased features
- Brand assets, creative materials, and unreleased content
- Recruitment pipelines, candidate data, and talent acquisition strategies
- Any information explicitly marked "Confidential", "Proprietary", or "Internal Use Only"
- Any other information of the Company, in any form whatsoever — whether or not falling within the specific categories listed above — that relates to the Company's business, operations, technology, personnel, finances, clients, or strategy.

2.2 Trade Secrets

For the purposes of this Policy, "Trade Secrets" includes confidential technical, operational, financial, strategic, or commercial information that derives independent economic value, actual or potential, from not being generally known to or readily ascertainable by others, and which the Company has taken reasonable steps to keep secret.

Any transfer, copying, storage, or sharing of the Company's Trade Secrets or Confidential Information by an Employee to or through personal devices, personal email or messaging accounts, personal cloud or external storage, or any other non-Company channel — whether intentional or inadvertent — shall fall within the scope of, and constitute a breach of, the protections set out in this Section.

03 Reaffirmation of Existing Obligations

By signing this Policy, the Employee reaffirms and acknowledges that the following obligations under the Existing Documents continue to apply in full force throughout employment and, where stated, after employment ends:

- Confidentiality and non-disclosure obligations under Section 6 (Confidentiality & Non-Disclosure) of the Employment Agreement, or the equivalent clause in the Internship Agreement — covering the definition of Confidential Information, the Employee's duty of non-disclosure and authorised use, the obligation to return all Confidential Information and Company property on exit, and the indefinite survival of confidentiality obligations after separation.
- Intellectual property obligations under Section 7 (Intellectual Property) of the Employment Agreement — covering the Company's exclusive ownership of all work product created by the Employee during employment, the Employee's irrevocable assignment of all intellectual property rights to the Company, and the Employee's obligation to cooperate in the registration and enforcement of such rights.

- Data protection obligations under Section 8 (Data Protection) of the Employment Agreement — covering the Employee's consent to the Company collecting, processing, and storing the Employee's personal data for legitimate business purposes, and the Employee's obligation to handle personal data of clients, customers, and colleagues in accordance with applicable Indian data protection law (including the Digital Personal Data Protection Act, 2023) and Company policies.
- Conduct and exclusivity obligations under Section 9 (Expected Conduct & Exclusivity During Employment) of the Employment Agreement — prohibiting freelance, consulting, or employment arrangements with other organisations without prior written approval; work with or contributions to any direct or indirect competitor; use of Company time, resources, equipment, or information for personal or external projects; solicitation or diversion of Company clients, projects, or opportunities; and sharing of internal strategies, roadmaps, client information, or proprietary knowledge with external parties.
- Non-solicitation obligations under Section 10 (Non-Solicitation) of the Employment Agreement — under which, for a period of one (1) year after separation, the Employee shall not solicit or entice any Company employee, contractor, or consultant to leave; solicit or divert any Company client, customer, vendor, or business partner for competing services; or interfere with any existing business relationship of the Company.
- Workplace and IT policies under the Employee Handbook — specifically Section 6 (Code of Conduct: professional behaviour, conflict-of-interest disclosure, anti-harassment and anti-discrimination, substance policy), Section 7 (Communication & Workplace Etiquette: use of official communication channels, professional tone, non-disclosure of internal discussions on personal social media), Section 8 (Mobile Phone & Social Media Policy: limits on personal phone use during work hours and restrictions on social media activity concerning the Company), and Section 9 (IT & Equipment Policy: use of Company-provided equipment solely for work, prohibition on unauthorised software, and return of equipment and access credentials on exit).
- Grievance and disciplinary obligations under Section 11 (Grievance & Disciplinary Procedure) of the Employee Handbook — covering the process for raising grievances (escalation from reporting manager to written complaint to management), the Company's commitment to investigate complaints confidentially within stated timelines, the range of disciplinary actions available (verbal warning, written warning, performance improvement plan, suspension, termination), and the Employee's right to a fair opportunity to present their side before any disciplinary action is finalised.

Nothing in this Policy reduces, modifies, or waives those obligations. This Policy operates alongside the Existing Documents and reinforces the standards already accepted by the Employee.

04 Breach During Employment — Disciplinary Action & Recovery

The Company shall determine the appropriate measure based on the nature, severity, and impact of the breach. The Company's determination shall be final and binding, subject to applicable law and the grievance and disciplinary procedure set out in Section 11 of the Employee Handbook.

The Employee acknowledges and agrees that any unauthorised disclosure, misuse, or compromise of Confidential Information may cause the Company significant and irreparable harm that is difficult to quantify in monetary terms, and may entitle the Company to seek injunctive relief, damages, and any other remedy available under applicable law in addition to the measures set out below.

If any employee is found to have disclosed, misused, or compromised Confidential Information during their tenure at Know AI, the following actions may be taken, individually or in combination:

- Withholding, adjustment, deduction, or recovery from the Employee's salary, performance incentives, conditional bonuses, ex-gratia payments, advances, reimbursements, or any other amounts payable to the Employee, to the maximum extent permitted under the Employee's contract of employment, the Company's internal policies, and applicable law (including the Payment of Wages Act, 1936 and the Code on Wages, 2019). The quantum and nature of such action shall be determined by the Company, and the Company's determination shall be final and binding, subject to applicable law.
- Formal written warning and placement on a performance improvement or disciplinary plan
- Suspension from duties, with or without pay, pending investigation
- Recovery of demonstrable financial losses or damages directly caused by wilful misconduct, negligence, or breach of confidentiality, in accordance with applicable law
- Termination of employment, with immediate effect, for cause — without severance where applicable
- Initiation of civil or criminal legal proceedings against the employee

The Company shall determine the appropriate quantum, nature, and extent of any disciplinary, deduction, or recovery action under this Policy, taking into account factors including: the sensitivity of information disclosed, the damage caused to the Company's business or reputation, whether the breach was intentional, reckless, or negligent, the breadth of information exposed, and the Employee's conduct prior to and after the breach. The Company's determination shall be final and binding, subject to applicable law and the grievance and disciplinary procedure set out in Section 11 (Grievance & Disciplinary Procedure) of the Employee Handbook.

4.1 Investigation Process

Any suspected breach of this Policy will be investigated in accordance with the grievance and disciplinary procedure set out in Section 11 (Grievance & Disciplinary Procedure) of the Employee Handbook. The Employee shall cooperate reasonably with such investigations and shall be afforded a fair opportunity to be heard before any disciplinary or recovery action is taken.

The Company's investigation rights under this Section are not limited to Company-issued devices, accounts, or systems. Personal devices, personal email and messaging accounts, personal cloud or external storage, and any other channel used by the Employee in connection with the Company's business or to handle Confidential Information fall within the same scope of investigation, to the extent permitted under applicable law.

4.2 Indemnification

The Employee shall indemnify and keep the Company indemnified against all losses, damages, claims, costs, and expenses (including reasonable legal fees and disbursements) directly or indirectly arising from any breach of this Policy by the Employee, to the extent permitted under applicable law (including Sections 124 and 125 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872). This indemnity is in addition to, and not in substitution for, any other remedy available to the Company under this Policy, the Employee's contract of employment, or applicable law.

05 Post-Employment — Direct Legal Action

The obligations under this Policy do not end upon resignation, termination, contract completion, or any other form of separation from the Company. Confidential Information must be protected indefinitely after the employment relationship ends.

In the event that a former employee is found to have disclosed, misused, or shared Confidential Information after separation from the Company, Know AI shall:

- Initiate civil legal proceedings for breach of confidentiality, misappropriation of trade secrets, and/or breach of contract, subject to applicable law
- Seek injunctive relief to prevent further disclosure or misuse of Confidential Information
- Claim financial damages, including recovery of all losses, loss of business, reputational harm, and legal costs
- File criminal complaints under applicable provisions of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 (and the Indian Penal Code, 1860, for offences predating its repeal), the Information Technology Act, 2000 (as amended), the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023, and any other applicable law
- Pursue action under common-law trade secret protections, the Company's contractual rights under the Employee's contract of employment, and this Policy, and any other statutory remedies available under Indian law

The confidentiality and other surviving obligations under this Policy continue to apply after separation from the Company without any limitation as to subject matter. The Company's right to enforce these obligations shall be exercised in accordance with applicable law.

06 Reporting Obligations

Employees are required to report, as soon as practicable, any of the following to the HR Department or senior management:

- Any actual or suspected breach of this Policy — by themselves or any other employee
- Any request from an external party to disclose Confidential Information
- Any loss, theft, or unauthorised access to devices or documents containing Confidential Information

Failure to report a known breach, whether one's own or another's, shall itself constitute a violation of this Policy and may attract the consequences set out in Section 4.

07 Exceptions

Nothing in this Policy shall prevent an employee from:

- Disclosing information that is already in the public domain through no fault of the employee
- Disclosing information as required by applicable law, regulation, or valid court order — provided that the employee notifies the Company promptly and cooperates to seek protective orders
- Making lawful disclosures protected under applicable law, including whistleblower disclosures or reports to regulatory or governmental authorities, where such disclosures are made in good faith

08 Severability

If any provision of this Policy is held to be invalid, illegal, or unenforceable under applicable law, the remaining provisions shall continue in full force and effect, and the invalid provision shall be deemed modified to the minimum extent necessary to make it enforceable while preserving the original intent of the parties.

09 Governing Law & Jurisdiction

This Policy shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of India. Any disputes arising out of or in connection with this Policy shall be subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts in Ahmedabad, Gujarat, India.

Employee Acknowledgement & Declaration

I, the undersigned, hereby declare and confirm the following:

- I have carefully read, fully understood, and voluntarily agree to be bound by all the terms and obligations set out in this Confidentiality & Non-Disclosure Policy.
- I acknowledge that this Policy supplements (and does not replace) my signed Employment Agreement or Internship Agreement, Offer Letter, and the Employee Handbook, and that all obligations under those documents continue to apply in full alongside this Policy.
- I acknowledge that any breach of this Policy during my employment will entitle the Company to take disciplinary action and to withhold, adjust, deduct, or recover from my salary, performance incentives, conditional bonuses, ex gratia payments, advances, reimbursements, or any other amounts payable to me, to the extent permitted under applicable law and my contract of employment. I agree that the Company shall determine the quantum and nature of such action, and that its determination shall be final and binding, subject to applicable law and the grievance and disciplinary procedure set out in Section 11 (Grievance & Disciplinary Procedure) of the Employee Handbook.
- I acknowledge that if I am no longer employed at Know AI and a breach is identified, the Company reserves the right to initiate appropriate legal proceedings against me, subject to applicable law.
- I understand that my confidentiality, intellectual property, and trade-secret obligations under this Policy and the Existing Documents survive the end of my employment and continue to bind me thereafter, subject to applicable law.
- I agree to indemnify the Company against all losses, damages, claims, costs, and expenses (including reasonable legal fees) directly arising from any breach of this Policy by me, to the extent permitted under applicable law.
- I confirm that I have not, prior to signing this Policy, disclosed any Confidential Information belonging to Know AI to any third party.
